Anime STL 2008

By: Alex Burns

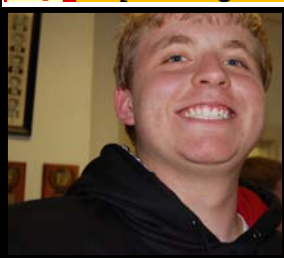

On March 28-30, Vanessa Mulvaney and myself had the wonderful opportunity to join the cosplaying community in St. Louis with over 1,400 people attending. What is cosplay? It's an exciting hobby where you "dress up" as a character or person from a video game, anime, movie, or manga (Japanese comics). Gaining more and more popularity each year, anime conventions give you the opportunity to enjoy other people's costumes, hang out with friends, and have fun. This being my second convention, I've learned a lot about the art of cosplay. At the convention, they had a lot of merchandise straight from Japan there. We met Johnny Yong Bosch (voice actor best known for Ichigo from Bleach and Nero from Devil May Cry 4). They also had a masquerade where cosplayers go on stage and perform skits or simply go on stage to show off their costumes. Anime STL 2008 was a very rewarding experience for Vanessa and I. Why don't you join the party? We hope to see you there next year!
